

Style sheet for Citations in the Proceedings of CAA 2009

(Source: www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools\_citationguide.html)

Our Bible for all layout and design issues is The Chicago Manual of Style. This manual presents two basic documentation systems, the humanities style (notes and bibliography) and the author-date system.

Choosing between the two often depends on subject matter and nature of sources cited, as each system is favored by different groups of scholars. The proceedings of CAA 2009 will use the humanities style.

The humanities style is preferred by many in literature, history, and the arts. This style presents bibliographic information in notes and, often, a bibliography. It accommodates a variety of sources, including esoteric ones less appropriate to the author-date system. Below are some common examples of materials cited in the humanities style. Each example is given two ways: first, as a note (Note); second, as a bibliographic entry (Bibliography). The numbers preceding each “Note” simply represent the imaginary footnote number in your paper where the work is cited.

CAA 2009 authors should use the Note style in their footnotes; and the Bibliography style in their Bibliography (an obligatory section at the end of your paper).
