

Dr. Axel G. Posluschny M.A.

Roman-Germanic Commission of the German-Archaeological Institute
Palmengartenstr. 10-12
60325 Frankfurt
Germany

posluschny@rgk.dainst.de posluschny@web.de

CV:

I wrote my M.A. thesis at Marburg University in 1995 where I was awarded a PhD in Pre- and Protohistory in 2002. My thesis was on GIS-supported research in an area in Northern Bavaria in the Early Iron Age.

From 1988 on I have participated in a large number of excavations, surveys, teaching and museum activities, including database and GIS-work for various employers, especially at the German Archaeological Institute. From 2004 to 2010 I have worked as a Senior Researcher at the Roman-Germanic Commission of the German Archaeological Institute for the Princely Sites and Environs Project. This project focused on GIS-based, landscape archaeological research on the Early Iron Age "Princely Sites" in southern Germany, eastern France and western Bohemia. I am now serving as Project Manager for the ArchaeoLandscape Europe Project, coordinating a large-scale EU funded networking project on aerial archaeology, remote sensing, geophysics, and LiDAR.

For an overview of some of my recent publications, see my profile on Academia.edu: <http://dainst.academia.edu/AxelPosluschny>.

Activities related to CAA:

- Conference participation CAA 2000 (Ljubljana), 2003 (Vienna), 2005 (Tomar), 2006 (Fargo), 2007 (Berlin; co-organiser), 2008 (Budapest), 2009 (Williamsburg), 2010 (Granada), 2011 (Beijing)
- Member of the Scientific Committees of CAA 2006 (Fargo), 2007 (Berlin), 2008 (Budapest), 2009 (Williamsburg), 2010 (Granada), 2011 (Beijing), 2012 (Southampton)
- Member of the Scientific Committee of the annual conference "Cultural Heritage & New Technologies" (Vienna)
- Member of the Scientific Committee of the conference "7 millennia of territorial dynamics : settlement pattern, production and trades from Neolithic to Middle Ages" (Dijon 2008)
- Chair of CAA Germany
- Organiser of various CAA related sessions at EAA, CAA Germany workshops and meetings of the German Archaeological Societies

Motivation:

I have been involved with CAA for more than 11 years now and always experienced it as both an inspiring conference and a community where things related to my research can be presented and discussed. Being a member of CAA and attending its conferences helped me so much that I feel I should give back some of that help by serving as a member of the Steering Committee of CAA.

I have been involved in financial matters since I was a student of Economics in the mid 1980s, have been responsible for the finances of the student council at Bonn University, and also for a while for CAA Germany, of which I am now serving as chair. I was one of the principal organizers of CAA2007 in Berlin, and was deeply involved in organizational matters so I feel that my experience and expertise can be of great value to CAA. Together with the membership secretary I want to work on establishing the constitutionally foreseen payment platform and I want to work together with the other members of the SC on a new set of rules for the bursaries.